

Local Market Public Relations

Build your local reputation with PR pros who know your community inside and out

Grassroots local PR can make or break a brand.

There's a reason mPR has spent 10 years growing our network of 100% senior-level public relations professionals nationwide. In today's 24-hour news cycle, it is essential to have a partner that understands how and where to deliver your messages to drive the right actions, especially at the local level.

We seamlessly tap experts in key markets — mPR team members who know the reporters, media landscape, headlines and issues in communities across the country.

Local contacts mean local coverage, a keener awareness of organizations important to your business, and confidence that your engagement is authentic, strategic and effective.
